

Due to the Coronavirus, the European Court takes exceptional measures to hear cases

The European Court of Human Rights is switching to a special work mode to prevent a possible spread of the Coronavirus. For that purpose, the European Court has taken numerous measures. According to the court's press release:

- In principle, the Court's essential activities and especially the handling of priority cases will be maintained. For this purpose, the court has shifted to remote work to ensure the continuity of its tasks;
- Under Rule 39 of the Rules of Court, the court has adopted procedures regarding the examination of urgent requests for interim measure;
- The premises of the court are no longer accessible to the public. The hearings scheduled for March and April are cancelled pending further decisions;
- The six-month time-limit for the lodging of applications, provided for by Article 35 of the European Convention on Human Rights, is suspended for a period of one-month as
